

Teach Consultancy Ltd: Coaching businesses, leaders and entrepreneurs

Professional executive coaches are increasingly being used by organisations with astounding success. One only needs to hear the endorsement from leaders such as Jonathan Jay to get a sense of the power and significance executive coaches are having on industry. Recently it was reported that 39% of FTSE 100 CEOs had used a professional coach with companies providing coaching services to multiple levels of their management teams. These companies report increased sales, increased profits, growth in market share and increased job and personal satisfaction when executive coaches are used.
